

Thank you for expressing interest in summer 2019 language courses offered by the Department of Classics at the University of Toronto! With the goal of trying to increase the participation of historically underrepresented groups in the study of Ancient Greek and Latin, the Department is able to offer a limited number of bursaries in amounts ranging from as much as $1,500 (one term) to $3,000 (two terms) to cover tuition and more, for deserving students both from the U of T and from other institutions.

If you are interested in applying for a bursary, please send by March 15th a cover letter to the Department Chair, Professor Christer Bruun, at:

chair.classics@utoronto.ca

In your cover letter please briefly explain your interests in taking introductory Ancient Greek and/or introductory or intermediate Latin (e.g., academic background, current interests in classical antiquity or related fields, plans for future study). Please also describe the ways in which you might contribute to diversity (e.g., on the basis of race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, socio-economic status). We are especially interested in applicants with expressed financial need.

For details about summer courses at the University of Toronto, including a preliminary timetable and information about applying from other universities in North America or overseas, please see the following link:

<http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/course/timetable/20195/20195prelim>

If you have additional questions about our summer language courses, feel free to contact the Undergraduate Coordinator, Professor Eph Lytle, at:

undergrad.classics@utoronto.ca